Ready, Set, Keep Going

I welcomed the New Year with a weekend at the evening market surrounded by new friends we've made there this year and talking to dozens of people from all over the country. My teammate Jenelle and I continue to thank God for this opportunity to love our city and connect with so many people. Sometimes the beginning of a new calendar year marks a shift of season and focus, and sometimes, like this year, a new year brings excitement of continuing where the last year left off. We are excited to keep going to the market with our Free English table, and to keep making friends as God gives us favor there.

I'm grateful my family came to visit in December! We all had a great time together.

Spare Sixty

Would you please take one minute to pray for this need in the Buddhist world? I continue to serve with Change The Map, a prayer advocacy movement to change the spiritual map of the Buddhist world for Christ. Last year we started monthly podcasts and weekly directed prayer moments. We are excited about new developments and resources for the praying community in the near future. Please pray for thousands of intercessors to join the movement!

Praise & Prayer

PRAISE GOD FOR: our "girl gang," a group of 7-9 year old girls who spend time with us at our market table and have come to events at our ministry center; closer friendships with people at the market; my family's trip.

PLEASE PRAY FOR: deeper conversations at the market and ways to connect with new friends during the week; Change The Map and our working team; friends to want to know Jesus.
