Serving in Thailand

12 Days of...Lampang

No seven swans a-swimming, but there were that many elephants! Kaelin from North Dakota spent 12 days with me visiting friends in Lampang, meeting colleagues from other cities, and eating the best Thai food ever (ok, maybe I'm partial). We did all my usual weekly things like Bible studies and the weekend market, and Kaelin got a taste of what missionary life is like. Please pray as Kaelin listens to God about a call to overseas work.

← The Sunday church pastors opened a restaurant on weekday evenings to give church members work and vocational training. We visited them with our Thailand field coordinators (and fellow SoCal missionaries!) Dan and Deanna Klepel.

Book Release!

Praise & Prayer

PRAISE GOD FOR:

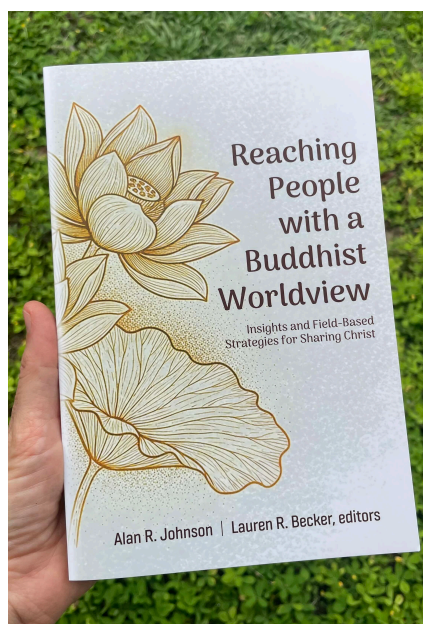

Kaelin's time in Lampang and God's hand on our schedule; friends who visited from Chiang Mai and Bangkok; strength and health; the book release; my visa and work permit renewed for another year to serve in Thailand!

PLEASE PRAY FOR: God to reveal Himself to my friends and that they will see Jesus is their only hope.

Spare Sixty

Would you please invest the next minute to pray for this need in the Buddhist world?

Please pray this new book will inspire missionaries and local believers with ideas about reaching their Buddhist neighbors and how to address social and cultural barriers Buddhists face when considering the Gospel. Pray for much fruit!

I co-edited a book written by 14 global workers about the influence of a Buddhist worldview in five countries, and how we can overcome barriers to reach these people with the Gospel. It's published by William Carey Publishing and available in digital and print formats.
